DO WE, THE CLASS OF 1912, RESPECTFULLY DEDICATE THIS VOLUME

EDITORIAL.

In editing this, the seventh volume of the Dutchman, we have tried hard to produce a book that contains not only all the usual contents of an ordinary year-book, but also several new features which we hope will meet with your approval.

Remember the Dutchman is not a book for the members of teams and of the senior division only. All the boys, even those in the lowest classes, should enjoy its humor and keep it as a reminder of what happened before they took the lead in school affairs.

With this short foreword, we will leave the book to your judgment.

SCHOOL HISTORY

The history of the Collegiate School dates back to the early settlement of Manhattan Island by the Dutch. Adam Roelantsen, who was sent out from Holland by the Synod of the Dutch Church, was the founder of the school. It has long been believed to have been established in 1633, and the first schoolmaster appears to have been on Manhattan Island in that year. Recent researches, however, have shown that he was not examined and licensed by the Classis of Amsterdam until 1637, when he again returned to New Amsterdam. It is probable that he began his work as schoolmaster about April 1, 1638.

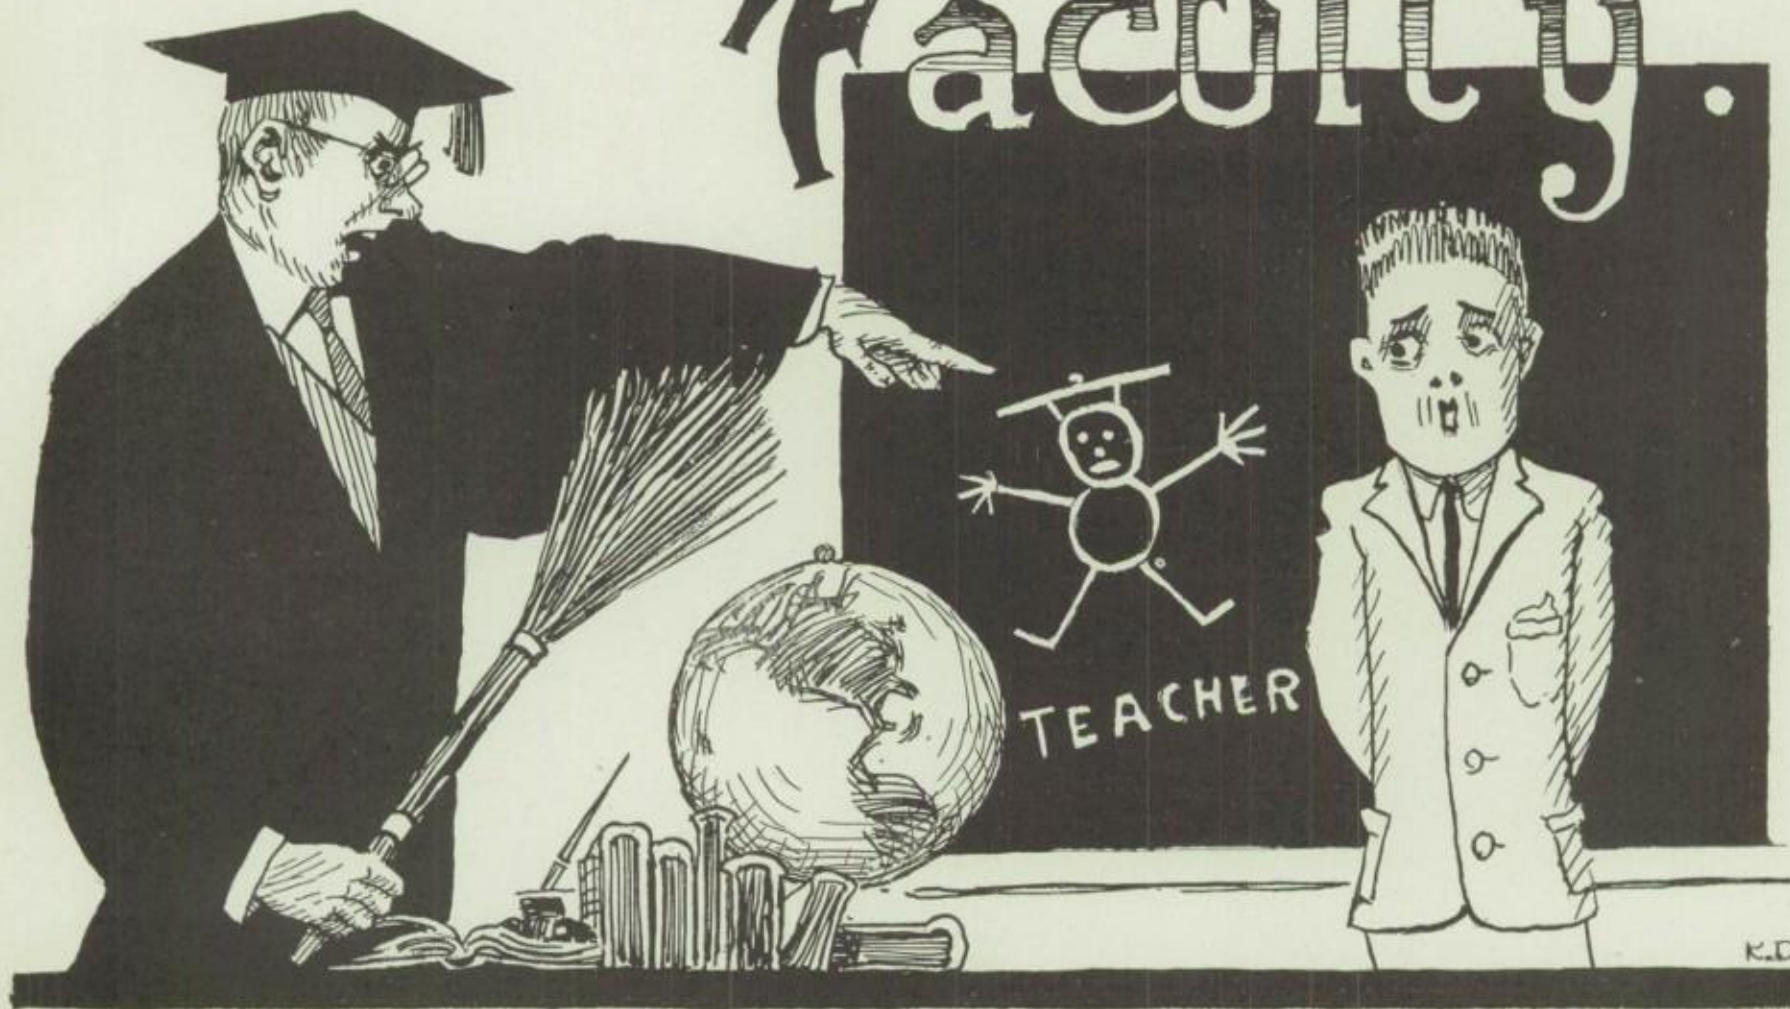

The first schoolhouse was built in 1748 on Garden Street, between William and Broad streets, the exact site being marked on a map dated 1764.

In 1639, Roelantsen was removed, and his place as schoolmaster was filled by Jan Cornelissen. In 1661, Evert Pieterse became the sixth schoolmaster, and a branch school was opened on the Bowery under Hermanus Van Hoboken. In 1726, Barent De Forrest was appointed seventh schoolmaster and, in 1743, a branch school was opened in Cortlandt Street under Huybert Van Wogenen. In 1775, the school was interrupted by the Revolutionary War and reorganized under Peter Van Steenbûrg in 1783. About 1825 the school was moved to Duane Street and ten years later was moved to 106 Elm Street. The school remained in that location but five years, and, in 1840, was moved to 183 Fourth Street. After twenty-one years of prosperity, the school was removed to 160 West 29th Street, where it remained until 1887. In 1887, the late Mr. L. C. Mygatt was appointed schoolmaster, and the school moved to 242 West 74th Street. Here it remained until 1894, when, after being made a school for boys only, it was moved to its present location.

The record of pupils is complete from 1792 to the present time. In 1808, the supervision of the school was taken from the Deacons of the Collegiate Church and placed in the hands of trustees, where it has remained ever since.

VALEDICTORY LETTER

In this, our last year at Collegiate, we hope, as members of the Senior Class, that it will always be one on which we may look back with pride. We have endeavored to do our best in everything that we have come in contact with, and, owing to the small size of our class, the responsibilities have been put on fewer shoulders.

We now leave Collegiate where we have been so long together, hoping that the Class of 1913 will take up their duties where we left off, and uphold the glory and traditions for which Collegiate stands.

1912 CLASS ODE

I

In our class, not very great,
I shall endeavor here to state
The characters of each and all,
Of every man, both great and small.

II

Blodgett 's the first of this most noble class
And, being good in his studies, is quite sure to pass
When the "exams" come around at the end of the year,
Which often determine a fellow's career.
He is manager fine of our famed hockey team,
And no one so modest has ever been seen(?)
There are some things he 's not, one of which is a dude;
Nor has he reached fame for his great pulchritude.

III

Brewer 's the next, who is very sedate;
He 's one of whom I 've not much to relate
Except that his hair is exceedingly red
And that he retires quite early to bed.
He never was known to call on a girl
And has not even a part of a curl
Which he keeps as a token of love and esteem
Of the girl whom he calls his "peaches and cream."

IV

The next in order in the line,
Is Broadhurst, rarely found on time.
And yet I 'm told, there are some days
In which he does n't come out of the daze
Into which he fell the night before
In some café or dancing floor.
This does not mean that Broadhurst boozes,
Oh horrors, no!!! He only snoozes.

VI

Now Jackson, the tall, before me stands;
His height is almost nineteen hands.
In basketball he 's quite the cheese,
But hockey makes him weak in the knees.
His teacher thinks he 's hard to teach,
His brain, you see, is out of reach,
In spite of this, he 's a terrible grind
As hard a one as you 'll ever find,

V

The victim who now before me begs,
Is one extremely long of legs;
And, though history fits him like a coat,
'T is "math." that always "gets his goat."
Carreau is fond of girls, I think,
For often we see him at the rink,
Skating with one far below his size
Who came not merely for exercise.

VII

I hear a pun that sets me wild,
I look around and see a child;
It 's Morse who has made the awful joke—
And on some of them we wish he 'd choke.
He 's the biggest kid in all the bunch
And he 's never quiet except at lunch,
He dances, and skips, and hops, and sings,
With never a thought of serious things.

VIII

Oakley's the one I 'm now going to flay,
 And he must abide by what I say
 His character is; for it might be worse
 Than that which is written within this verse.
 In his studies we know he is very bright,
 And has to study such a little mite:
 But, when in the street, and he once sees a skirt,
 Well,—we know he 's a terrible flirt.

IX

Stilwell's the last, but not the least.
 He surely will never be a priest;
 He 's baseball captain, and other things too,
 And he smokes cigarettes, but he does n't chew.
 With the girls he, too, is not very slow
 And several we know of have him for a beau.
 He is very good-natured, and lots of fun,
 And especially so when he is chewing gum.

X

With these poor lines I sadly close
 And trust that I in peace may repose,
 And not be censured by those the most
 Whom within these lines I so rudely roast.

GEORGE REDDINGTON BLODGETT

"RARE, INDEED, IS THE COMBINATION OF BEAUTY AND MODESTY"

George is the Hockey Manager, which exalted position he won for himself by dint of much campaigning(?). This, however, is by no means all that "Gum Shoes" can do: he can balance to perfection a small-sized derby on the front of his large-sized cranium. "Squeak" must have been a nymph when he was on earth in the olden days, for he still has kept with him that light and delicate step for which they were noted. If he would but wear sandals (and shine them occasionally), omit the audible socks, and don a bath towel (the modern tunic), he would be transformed into a "sure nuf" nymph.

Brewer is one of those strange fellows rarely seen in America except in the "Zoo" or on the stage. He is a very remarkable combination of red hair and awkwardness. The former is a bright flame color, and quite apropos to this "roasting" process. The latter is an awkwardness quite his own, and is considerably augmented when he dons his basketball clothes. If there happen to be any future "better halves" in the "gym.," "Tally's" crimson hair and awkwardness are set off by a certain ruddy glow emanating from his neck and shoulders, and called in vulgar language—a blush.

Broadhurst might be called our "absent friend," or "Now-you-see-him, now-you-don't." Basil is without doubt Rip Van Winkle reincarnated, only with an interval of two weeks instead of twenty years between his moves. He comes to school one day and gets his lessons for the next, arriving to recite on them a fortnight later. This appearance every two weeks has almost become a habit with Broadhurst, and the senior class has now begun to count time from the last time "Bosko" was seen at school. If by chance we see him within this two-week period, we at once become too weak to do any work.

Although our class is matchless, we have one toothpick—Carreau; and he may make a good match yet. His front name is Louis; and sometimes, when there are thirteen at a party and he is asked in, he is called Louis XIV. He is fond of fairs—both of fair girls and girls' fairs; and he fares well at all of them. His prolonged calls on so many "fairs" and the slimness of the fare at the other fairs probably account for his length and leanness. This, however, is none of my affair. Despite his thinness, Curly has got any horse beaten a mile when it comes to eating. He was once known to have eaten four whole chickens at one sitting and then to have had the nerve to take one to a dance and dance the turkey trot.

When one hears the name Jackson, one instantly associates it with feet. Arthur has delicate canal boats—approximately elevens and a half, but the exact size is not known and cannot be found with the present system of measuring. When some one ran off with a pair of his shoes one day, all awaited with impatience to learn how they would be brought back. Some one suggested putting wheels on and making a runabout, but, on second consideration this, was thought to be too small to fit the shoes, and a touring-car was substituted. The shoes, however, were not returned at all, and the probabilities are that the thief became lost in them.

Morse is the little fellow with the terrible jokes. It is really awful for the teachers and pupils that happen to be in the same room when a particularly bad one comes out. If it happens to be a cold day when the windows are opened to let in fresh air (it is a rule of the school that all rooms be aired after a joke over twenty years old has been "pulled off"), the students freeze. If it is a hot day, the heroes have to suffer. Morse was even once known to spring one that prostrated himself. The joke which "made Milwaukee famous" is given below. It is guaranteed not to be more than fifty years old. Here it is: "No matter how hungry a horse may be, he will never eat a bit." If you can't analyze this, a map will be furnished on application.

Oakley is one of those mild-looking fellows from the outside, but when you once get in—well, let it suffice to say that he is not entirely as docile as he looks. Although he is very handsome (?), nevertheless he gets in with the girls in some manner, and almost any pleasant afternoon he may be seen peregrinating in pedestrian excursion along the great highway of Broadway, closely connected to at least two of the weaker sex. Besides this sportive tendency, Charlie inclines slightly towards stubbornness. Sometimes when he has been a naughty boy, or has misbehaved in some harmless manner, and is asked to write out a page of Latin, he flatly refuses, and so intimidates the instructor that he withdraws the sentence.

THOMAS VINCENT STILWELL

Class President, 1911-12

Dance Committee, 1910-11, 1911-12

T. V., our honored Class President and Baseball Captain, looks like the "noblest Roman of them all." With cornsilk locks and ties that look like a syncopated dream of confectionery, T. V. breaks girls' hearts like the eggs he eats for breakfast. But we are sorry to relate that for all these noble qualities which he possesses, he often descends to such low vulgarisms in conversation as "Oh! you kid," and other epithets, not countenanced by Mr. Morse. He is usually occupied at school in Mr. Whitney's room explaining how hard he studies, but that "Aw, I could n't get that"; or whispering with Oakley about the fun he had the night before.

GENERAL STATISTICS

Age—Average, 18 years, 1 month and 3 days. Oldest, 19 years, 2 months, 10 days. Youngest, 17 years, 1 month.

Height—Average, 5 feet 9 inches. Our beanpole is 6 feet 1 inch tall, but the mushroom of the class stands 5 feet 8 inches.

Weight—Average, $148\frac{1}{4}$ pounds. Heaviest fellow, 162 pounds. Lightest fellow, 141 pounds.

Rising Hour—Average, ten minutes past seven. Poor Blodgett gets up at 5 A.M., while Broadhurst arises at eight.

Retiring Hour—Average, 10 : 25 P.M. Brewer is dreaming peacefully at 9 : 30, while Broadhurst never gets to bed at all.

Smokers—50 per cent. Brewer smoked at the Class Dinner, and nearly passed away. Stilwell cannot remember when he began. Cigarettes and "makin's" are preferred.

Church Attenders—Four attend regularly (?) Brewer and Oakley have gone twice this winter.

Hours of Study—Average, 2 hours. Two fellows never study. One fellow studies every two weeks.

Political Party—Three are Republicans—Blodgett calls himself a Progressive Republican; two are Socialists, one is a Prohibitionist, while Broadhurst is an Anarchist.

Fussers—Five brazenly confess they are, and seem to be proud of it. Stilwell and Broadhurst declare they are most certainly not.

Lunch—Three go home; Blodgett fills himself at school, and Stilwell, Oakley, Carreau, and Morse have their "Mittagsessen" at the Broadway.

Those Who have Used a Pawn-ticket—Two confess they have, while the rest are still blameless.

Favorite Drinks—Jackson likes nectar; Morse, grape lemonade; and Broadhurst, black coffee. The rest are undecided, while Oakley will drink anything outside of ink and glue.

Number Who have Kissed Girls—Three complacently state that their lips are still chaste; the others all "fessed up," Jackson, Stilwell, and Oakley saying that the form of a geometrical progression to infinity being the proper method of computation.

Times a Month at Theatre—Average, five times a month, Oakley, Morse, and Brewer keeping the moving-picture show paying dividends.

Sweethearts—Average, two and one-half for each fellow. We leave it to you to figure out the "one-half." Stilwell got lost in mathematical calculations when questioned.

1913 EDITORIAL

You, Class of 1913, may justly be said to have made an enviable record during the three years you have been seniors. In athletics you are the equal of any class in school. In spirit you surpass any class in the senior division. As individuals, however, we can still find some faults; the chief one of which is that same self-conceit that has been with you ever since you entered the senior school. There is one great danger that you should beware of, and that is that your class spirit does not stand before school spirit. In starting the Oracle as a class paper last year, and in making it into a school paper this year, you have done a great deal. Now, however, that the novelty has worn off, you must greatly improve it, in order to make it a paper worthy of Collegiate. We predict for you a great senior year, 1913, and wish you the best and most deserved success.

1914 EDITORIAL.

The fact that you are a very small class, 1914, should make every one of you feel his responsibilities the more, and should make you work together more closely, for "a chain is only as strong as its weakest link." The several weak links in your class have earned for you a poor reputation. You seem to feel that you are not able to do things like the other classes; but, as you have not really tried yet, you should get rid of that feeling. Although you cannot all be athletes, nevertheless each and every one of you should be interested in some branch of school activity. Go at it heartily next year, 1914, and may your efforts gain success and make you one of the best of the senior classes.

1915 EDITORIAL

Several times, 1915, you have shown that there is some of the "stuff" in you to make a good senior class. You have been fortunate in having several fellows make teams; but what we wish most to commend, is that nearly every one of you has tried. We are also very pleased to see that several of you have taken some interest in social affairs by attending some of the dances.

Besides the several good traits already mentioned, you have faults too numerous to write of. Many of these will go in time, but take care to get rid of all of them as soon as possible, and to earn a good reputation for yourselves as others have done before you.

JOHN D. BEALS, JR., '13

CHARLES F. POPE, JR., '13

The social functions of Collegiate have always formed one of the most important factors of school activities; and this year, they have been fully as successful as in the past.

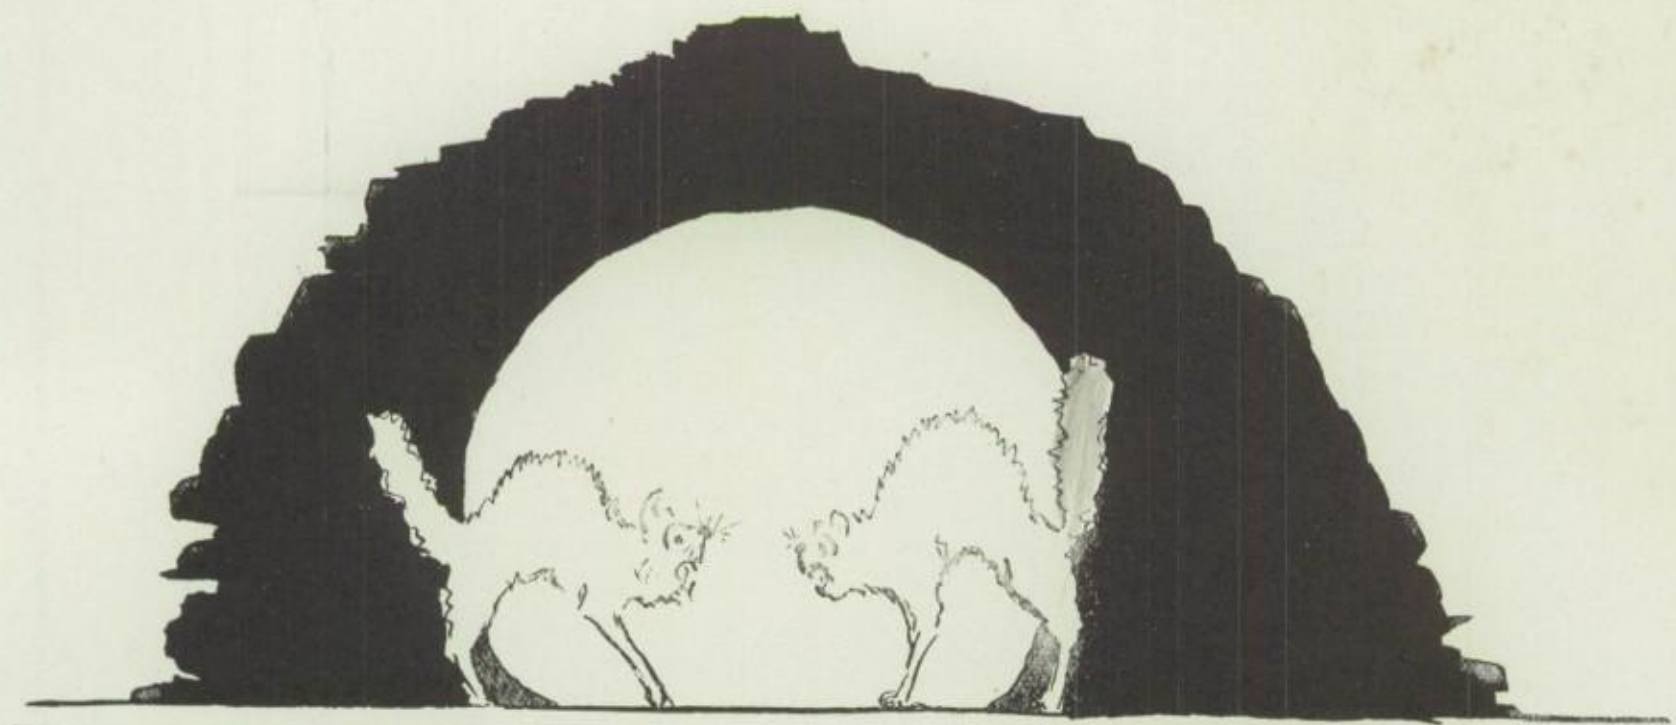

The first dance of the year was held on Friday, December 1st. The dance was a great success being very well attended by the Alumni and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The Christmas Dance, held on December 22d, also proved a great success, many Alumni, unable to attend the former dance, being present.

Though hardly social affairs, the basketball games were unusually well attended this year. At the Alumni game over two hundred members and friends cheered the school team to victory.

On Friday April 12th, the Annual Inter-Class Debate was held, followed as usual by dancing in the gymnasium. The Debate was well attended, despite the inclement weather and later many more came in for dancing. The gymnasium was decorated better than usual; the music was the best of the year; but the floor could have been better. It was a most successful dance, however, and was greatly enjoyed by all.

Although this book goes to press before the graduation dance, nevertheless we venture to predict that it will prove in every way as successful as its predecessors.

BASKETBALL REVIEW

Starting off at the beginning of the season as if they were going to make a clean record, the basketball team looked the strongest that Collegiate has seen in years. After a series of victories, however, the team fell off badly, due largely to sickness, and the season ended with four defeats.

The first game of the season, with Syms on December 8th, was an easy victory for Collegiate, the score being 42-9. This victory seemed to have a bad effect on the team, however, for on December 15th it was defeated by the Newman School at Newman, 29-16, an ill-lighted gymnasium being partly accountable.

On Friday, December 22d, the team defeated the strong team that the Alumni put on the floor by a score of 27-9. On the return to school after the Christmas vacation, the team started a winning rally by defeating Irving by a score of 44-10. On January 13th, the team received a bad scare by just managing to nose out the fast Mackenzie team of Dobbs Ferry by a score of 27-23. On January 19th, Horace Mann was met and defeated in our gymnasium by a score of 22-11, it being the first time in seven years. Although handicapped by the illness of Snedeker, the team played with a snap which spelled victory from the start. In this game the team probably reached its top form. Irving was again defeated, this time in their gymnasium, by a score of 23-8 on January 26th, and, on February 2d, Browning was defeated by a score of 31-10.

On February 9th, in a closely contested game, the team was defeated by Adelphi in our gymnasium, the score being 15-13. On February 17th, the Princeton Second defeated our team on our own floor by a score of 32-22. Collegiate was without the services of three of her best men, whose places were filled by substitutes and by Arnold of the Second team. On February 22d, the team was easily defeated at the hands of Horace Mann by a score of 26-12. The team played poorly, much fumbling and poor passing contributing to the defeat. The one bright spot in the game was the work of Tison who replaced Pope in the second half. On March 2d, the team travelled to Watertown and was defeated by the Taft School, there being no doubt about the result after the first whistle. The score was 45-17.

INDIVIDUAL CRITICISMS

Captain Jackson, '12, upheld his previously established record for fast and effective work in every department of the game. He succeeded almost invariably in getting the jump on his man, and was always at the front in number of goals scored, his ambition in the latter direction, however, being realized sometimes at the expense of team work.

Pope, '13, our right forward, who substituted on last year's team, was always fast and, sometimes, even brilliant in both team play and shooting. Though slightly erratic he could usually be depended upon for "snappy work," and was second only to Jackson in number of goals scored from field, making a total of 36 to the latter's 63.

Snedeker, '13, the other remaining member of last year's combination, proved in the short period during which he was permitted to play that he had mastered the essential requirements of his position at right guard. Alert, quick to see and execute his part in team work, and reliable in defence, he would assuredly have added much to the strength of our line-up had he not been compelled to withdraw on account of illness.

Oakley, '12, who occupied the left guard position, showed conclusively that he too was able to give a good account of himself. Though a little short of perfection in ability to cover quickly and effectively at critical moments, he nevertheless made himself an important factor in the offensive work of the team, and was able at times, notably in the Alumni game, to add materially to our score.

Platten, '13, though relatively young, both in years and experience, and handicapped by lack of weight, played an excellent game at left forward. His team work was "snappy" and his ability to stand hard work unusual. These factors together with his ability to figure frequently in scoring made him an invaluable aid to the team.

Brewer, '13, who, in several of our heaviest games played at left guard in the position left vacant by Snedeker, was a faithful and conscientious worker, and usually effective in defence. What he lacked in team play and aggressive work was largely compensated for by hard work and determination.

Vietor, '13, who substituted at both the left guard and right forward positions, played a remarkably strong game, considering his experience. He, like Platten, was severely handicapped by insufficient age and weight, but nevertheless, when called upon, demonstrated that he had sufficiently mastered the essentials of the game to be able to give a very creditable account of himself, sometimes even distinguishing himself for clean cut and aggressive team work.

Arnold, '13, Tison, '13, and Averbeck, '13, of the regular second team line-up, were able also to render valuable aid to the team at critical times. Without the splendid work of Arnold in the Princeton Second Game, and that of Tison at Horace Mann and Averbeck at Taft these games would undoubtedly have terminated even more disastrously than they did. We all hope that they will return next year and continue to improve as they did this season.

HOCKEY REVIEW

The Hockey Team this past year has been the most successful one that Collegiate has ever had. With seven men from last year's squad on the team again this year we won five games and lost to two city schools. The team, as an average, was a little lighter than was desired, but all of the men were fast and covered the ice well. The defence was excellent, the forwards being fair shots and the team work usually good. Of course there is room for improvement in all positions, and in future years Collegiate expects to have even better teams. These will naturally follow because a second team was formed for the first time this year, from which some good material is being developed for the first team. The second team won 2 games and lost one.

BASEBALL REVIEW

Owing to the cold and bad weather of the early spring, candidates for the Baseball Team were unable to get in but one practice before the Easter vacation. Lack of candidates was greatly felt by those in charge of the team, there being in all less than fifteen fellows trying for the team. With six regulars of last year's team in school this year, the outlook is, however, very promising; but none of them is in good condition as yet, owing to lack of practice.

On April 13th, the team started off by defeating the Kenwood Athletic Association by a score of 10-8. Owing to the bad weather, many of the fellows thought the game would not be played, and consequently some of the less promising candidates who were on hand had to play. Because of rain, the next game, that scheduled with Irving, had to be cancelled. On April 26th, however, a game was played with Horace Mann. The team was handicapped by the absence of Pope, our pitcher; Stilwell had to play in that position. He had one bad inning and the team was defeated by a score of 16-6. On May 3d and 4th, Trinity and Hackley were met, both games resulting in defeats for Collegiate by scores of 11-2 and 13-1 respectively. In both these games the "one bad inning hoodoo" made its appearance. The game scheduled for May 8th with Hamilton Institute was called off because of rain.

Although the team has not made a very creditable showing thus far, we all hope for, and expect a great improvement in the remaining games.

INDIVIDUAL CRITICISMS

Stilwell, '12, our captain and one of the pitchers, has not yet reached his old-time batting form. As a pitcher, however, he is quite able to hold his own for about five innings, but gets very poor support from the rest of the players. His fielding is very good.

Pope, '13, our other pitcher, is also very good for a few innings; but like Stilwell, he does not get the best of support. His fielding and throwing are very accurate; in batting he is one of the best; and at base-running he is probably faster than any other member of the team.

Tison, '13, has taken up the position of catcher and is doing very well, considering that this is his first year at catching for the team. His batting is good, and at times he is fast on the bases.

Snedeker, '13, is playing a good game at first base. Like several other members of the team, he has not been hitting the ball as well as he did last year, which may be due to his sickness that necessitated his absence from school for several months.

Lent, '13, a new comer, is covering second base. He is good at stopping the ball, but could be a little faster in his throws. His batting is not very good, and he cannot be said to be very fast on the bases.

Averbeck, '13, is back at third base, and is putting up a game even better than he did last year. His throwing and fielding are good; but he is inclined to be erratic. He has developed great speed on the bases, and is hitting among the leaders.

Morse, '12, came out this year for short stop, a position which he played for the first few games; but since then he has been put in right field due greatly to inaccuracy in fielding. His hitting is not very strong, neither is his base-running especially good. The position of short stop is now being covered by either Pope or Stilwell when not pitching.

Platten, '13, a substitute on last year's team, also tried for short stop; but like Morse, he was put in the field because of inaccurate fielding. He is now playing centre field, and bids fair to cover his territory very well. He is a little weak at batting, but we think that fault will be cured in time. His base-running is good.

Arnold, '13, who is playing in left field, is a sure fielder and is playing a fine game. He leads the team in batting, and for his size is remarkably fast on the bases.

Lyle, '14, a substitute outfielder, plays a very fair game, but is weak at the bat. He is the only member of 1914 to try for the team, and we hope he will be rewarded with success.

Carreau, '12, and Oakley, '12, were both out for the team, and both hope to play a little in the outfield. They are not sure fielders and are very weak at bat. As this is the first year they have been candidates for the team, time and practice ought to help both.

TENNIS REVIEW

It is impossible to say anything very definite about the Tennis Team for this year, as "The Dutchman" goes to press before many of the matches have been played. We can, however, give an account of last year's team which made a very creditable showing. The only time it met with defeat was in the Horace Mann Match; the matches with Adelphi, Montclair, Trinity, Syms, and the Faculty, all resulting in victories for Collegiate. Although only Jackson and Pope remain of last year's team, nevertheless, the three new members, Morse, Lent, and Paddock, are showing up well; and we all look forward to an even better record for this season.

GOLF REVIEW

Owing to the early date that this book goes to press, very little can be said definitely about the Golf Team. Last year the team was quite a success, and we hope it will do as well this year. Although handicapped by the absence of Averbeck, '13, who has given his attention entirely to baseball, the team looks fairly strong. To date one match has been played, with the second team of Columbia University which resulted in a defeat for Collegiate by a score of 4-1. The schedule is now being made up.

THE COLOR GROUPS

The Color Group system of athletic competition, a novelty at Collegiate this year, has been most successful. At the present time the Blues lead by a small margin of but one point. The spring games will probably determine the winner.

Matty's Great Book

Pitching in a Pinch

or, Baseball from the Inside

By Christy Mathewson

19 Illustrations. $1.00 net. By mail, $1.10

"It is a rarity when a busy man reads a book of 304 pages in two sittings, but that is what I did with Christy Mathewson's Pitching in a Pinch. Its twelve chapters are like so many successive base-hits by the home team. The peeps they give 'behind the scenes' of the great games of the past, the instruction in the art and fine points of the game, and the insight into Matty's humor and generosity of spirit towards his enemies of the diamond, make the book one of the most readable I ever owned. It is the baseball classic and will amuse and educate the fans, young and old, male and female.

"I have been a fan for forty years and thought I knew all about the game. Matty's book made me feel like a boy in the primary baseball class. I have learned many things although I felt like a baseball LL.D., and next to thanking 'Matty' for writing the book, I want to say how grateful I am to you for your spirit and enterprise in publishing it."

REO THE FIFTH

By R. E. OLDS
Designer

MY IDEAL CAR. Reo the Fifth—my latest creation—shows what I regard as ideal in a car.

It is not too large nor too small, too light nor too heavy. It is long, roomy, speedy and powerful.

It gives one a real car, without being wasteful of gasoline or oil. Experienced motorists, more and more, are adopting this type of car. So this factory now is building no other model.

THE LITTLE PRICE. The price of this car is no indication of what I've embodied in it. This price, in the long run, I regard as impossible. It is simply a passing sensation.

We have a model factory splendidly equipped. Also enormous output. We have worked for years to bring cost of production down to the lowest limit.

This year we save nearly $200 per car by building only one chassis in this great plant. We ought to, and will, undersell other cars of this size.

But this initial price is too low. A slight advance in materials—a little slip in production—will compel a higher price. And those who delay must expect it.

IT IS SUPERB. Here is a car where every detail shows the final touch.

The lines of the car are impressive. The car is long and low, big-wheeled and over-tired. Never was a car more comfortable.

The body finish consists of 17 coats. The upholstering is deep, made of genuine leather, filled with hair.

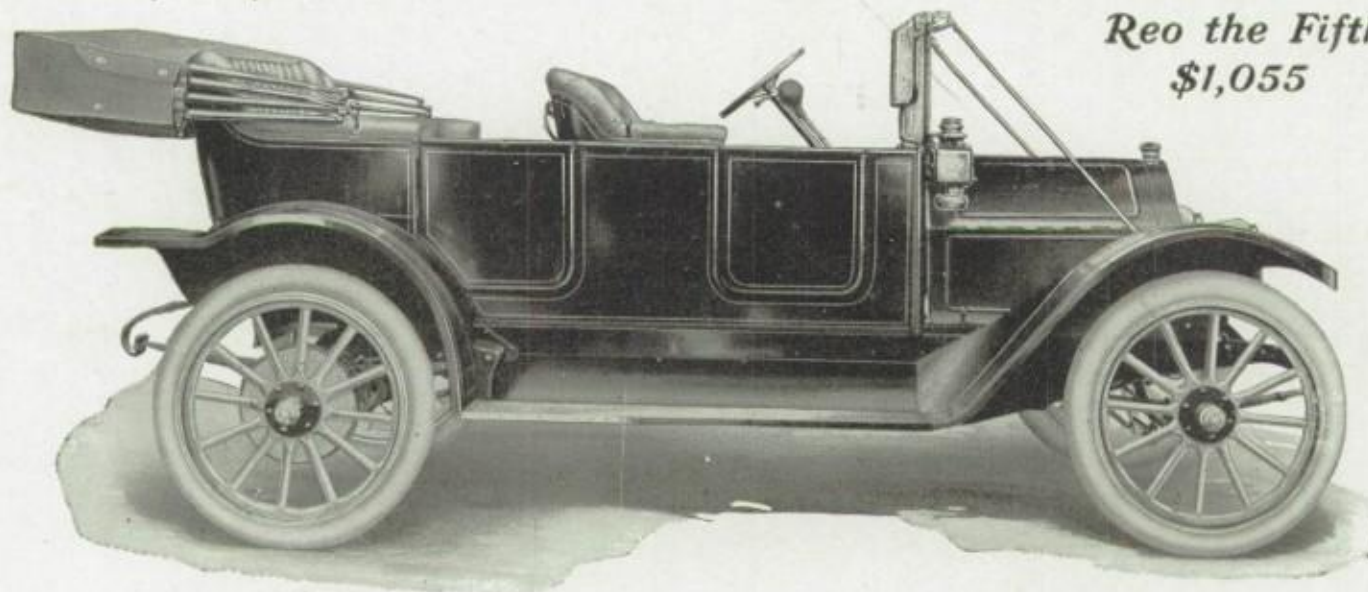

The lamps are enameled. Even the engine is nickel trimmed.

You expect these things in the costliest cars. But you never saw greater perfection in detail than in Reo the Fifth at $1,055.

THE BEST I CAN DO. The car represents the best I can do—down to the smallest detail. Men will never build cars much better.

The materials are the best that men know. The features are the best yet invented. More of care, skill or caution cannot be conceived.

ASK FOR CATALOG. Our catalog shows the various styles of body, and pictures the important details. The Roadster type sells for $1,000.

"Thirty-Six" Price $1,800

The more you know about automobiles the quicker you will realize that this car has established a new Standard of automobile values—it will do anything any car can do—and many things beyond any other car at any price—we can't make this statement too strong. It is an absolute fact.

1. BIG, POWERFUL, LONG STROKE MOTOR. Maximum power at low engine speed—it sends the car flying over the steepest hills.
2. CHALMERS SELF-STARTER. Does away with cranking. Just press a button—and away she goes.
3. 36 INCH X 4 INCH TIRES AND DEMOUNTABLE RIMS. Large, comfortable tires. The Demountable Rims mean instant tire changes if necessary.
4. FOUR SPEED TRANSMISSION. Think of it! In an $1,800 car. Gives utmost flexibility. Reduces gasoline consumption. Takes steep grades without punishing motor.
5. CARBURETOR ADJUSTMENT ON DASH. You get the right mixture without leaving your seat.
6. BUT THAT ISN'T ALL. There's a cellular radiator, dual ignition, long wheel base; deep, luxuriantly-comfortable upholstery and grace in line and finish that charms the eye. There are also many little refinements that you would only expect to find in the high-priced cars.
